Technology that Gives Your Business an Edge

In today's business climate, it's critical that your company has the tools to efficiently and effectively communicate. It's even more important if your company has special communication needs such as multiple offices, staff who are on the road, and workers who, for example, might be telecommuting from home. Providing your staff with the right technology is important to your bottom line, and one way to differentiate your business from the competition.

With Diversified Networks, you get customized telephone and data systems that meet your specific needs and improve the flow of voice and data information. With our technology, your business benefits from:

- Enhanced productivity
- Increased efficiencies
- Cost savings
- Flexibility

Telephone Systems

At Diversified Networks, we offer Nortel telephone systems that can be as simple or sophisticated as your needs require. We sell, install and service the equipment, but most importantly, we work with you to determine the features that will streamline your business and save you money. Our systems are easy to use, reliable and cost effective, and include features such as:

- Voice mail
- Auto attendant
- Unified messaging

Data Networking

Our data systems link together computers and peripheral equipment, allowing employees to share information, printers, etc. We can deliver more bandwidth to your business, allowing your computers to move information quicker and more efficiently. Among the many benefits of our data systems:

- Networks dozens of computers, components, IP telephones and other equipment
- Networks together specific areas within your organization

When Telephone and Data Converge

We offer telephone systems and data systems but when you combine the two, your business will realize the greatest efficiencies and cost savings. Here is what a "converged network" can do for your business:

- Receive e-mails and phone calls from multiple systems through one device
- Combined voice and data services can result in significant cost savings
- Enhance productivity by making communication more efficient
- Link remote offices and workers without requiring long distance phone calls or tying up outside phone lines
